Shari
I have what would you & shoulder to
cry on all of these times?
You always listen. But then again its always fun
to listen to you too, cause its
so exciting to be near you.
You have helped me by just watching you & sharing
me. I'm glad you & I can talk survive on these 2 times you
sweet & have a good summer &
next year.

Love, lots of it,
Kim "BO"

Sharon,
You are a dip!
But it's been good Talkin' to ya. You've helped me a lot. Hope you'll always remember me.
Come back & visit
me.

Guys acquire 'baching' skills

In the recently constructed halls of the Boys' Dorms you'll find frantic guys running around fighting a frustrating war with the washer and dryer and desperately wrestling with the unfamiliar iron.

Amidst the confusion there are the serene moments around the fireplace during dorm worship.

A time for worship

Vespers creates peaceful oasis

Are you trying to find one peaceful and relaxing time during the week at I.A.? Well, you've found it, vespers. The week is behind you and the weekend ahead of you. It's a time to breathe deeply and just relax, a time to let your soul be filled and refreshed with the word of God.

*Elder Randall Murphy, Pastor
Pastor David Slee, Associate Pastor*

A meeting with God consecrates Sabbath

After five days of study, a day of rest is welcomed with outstretched arms. To learn more about God and be filled with the Holy Spirit, we first attend our academy Sabbath School and then join the church family to worship the Lord.

Students gain useful experience in seminar

One of the ways we reach out to others is through seminar groups. Interested students join in groups to show Christ to others in churches across Indiana by providing Sabbath School and church services. Seminar is a good way to show others our Indiana Academy motto: "Where Christianity is a way of life."

J.A. outreach shares God's love to others

Our outreach program visits hospitals to encourage the sick, presents programs in old folks' homes and orphanages, and passes out literature. Through participating in these projects, we can share with others the love God has given us.

AYBL promotes better living

The AYBL, Adventist Youth for Better Living, promoted their way of life this year. Directed by Cary Gregory, they are encouraging better living by sponsoring poster and jingle contests, visiting public high schools, and helping with 5-Day Plans.

Temperance officers: Cary Gregory, president; Greg Barren, campus vice-president; Jeff Allred, village vice-president; Shari Overdorf, secretary-treasurer; John Nelund, public relations; Dave Schwartz, sponsor

MV program enlivens Sabbath afternoon

After everyone has finished with his rest after the scrumptious Sabbath dinner, there is the M.V. program. It is a time when all the students play Bible games, take nature walks, and participate in any other fun, religious activity that can be thought up.

Bresee stresses Christian love

A refreshing weekend which was spent in the wide open spaces of Timberidge Camp consisted of interesting meetings held by Dr. Floyd Bresee, prayer bands, horseback riding, swimming, canoeing, water skiing and a progressive hike. Exhausted but renewed students were eager to return to the comforts of dormitory life.

Students travel to Festival of the Word

On October 17, twenty-nine students left for Lafayette, Indiana, for the Festival of the Word. The main purpose of the Festival was to invite people to the Bible Prophecy Crusades and to increase the Crawfordsville church.

Johnson shares in prayer week

This Monday morning chapel was not to be skipped; a new week of taking more time for God had begun. Our speaker, Elder Mark Johnson, was better able to relate to us by using some of his school days' experiences as illustrations.

Hallowed Moments ends the Sabbath

Those hallowed, quiet moments at the end of the Sabbath are a time to sit and think upon the blessings you've received and the Lord you love. A short, inspirational poem or story is usually read and then everyone listens for the tolling of the bell. Seven times it rings to bid the Sabbath farewell, until next week.

A high-contrast, black and white silhouette photograph of a group of people, likely spectators at a stadium. They are shown from the side and back, looking towards the right. A prominent diagonal line, representing a sightline, cuts across the frame from the top left. The background is a light, textured sky.

Handshake acquaints students, faculty

The anxiously awaited registration day had finally arrived. Students hauled in their prized possessions and contemplated their future schedules. With the new students futilely hunting for elusive classroom numbers and old students happily greeting old friends, everyone finally made his way to the gym for the traditional handshake.

Seniors push, tug, race to victory

Bubble gum blowing, tug-of-war, balloon toss, pie eating, pushing the H.P. bus — the four classes vied for first place at the S.A.'s Labor Day picnic. From the brisk opening calisthenics through the sack races, wheelbarrow races, football throw until the final tug-of-war, participants were encouraged by the chants, cheers, and yells of their competitive classmates.

J.A. gym becomes a market place

During a Student Association Harvest Fest you can do different things: eat seniors' spaghetti, juniors' tacos, sophomores' pizza, MEMORIES/ECHO'S ice cream, or Tinegas' doughnuts and cider; go to Spartans' jail; watch a movie; have fun on a hayride; play many different games; or just sit!

Santa's sleigh descends to Indiana Academy

Having a picture taken in Santa's sleigh; listening to Good News carols, "The Twelve Days after Christmas," and "Toyland"; admiring the evergreen

decorations; enjoying the frozen pumpkin pie; and watching Eighty Steps to Jonah — all these form memories of the Student Association Christmas Banquet.

Frostbit Fingers Rest

The annual Ingathering Campaign took place on November 29 and December 2. The entire student body participates in this event. The first night there were more students than drivers so some students were not able to go. The second night, however, resulted in enough drivers and plenty of students to fill the cars.

Several students chose to go caroling which the community people greatly enjoyed. One group lost their bearings and singing Christmas driveup window then proceeded to apple pies to war

Campaign resurrects Echo, Memories

Amidst flickering candles and organ dirges the corpses of Memories and Echo were borne through the shocked mass of students. Rolls of tissue paper trailed behind the hysterical, black veiled mourners. During the heart-rending eulogy, Echo and Memories were resurrected by the hope of future subscriptions. After an hour of desperate writing, the freshmen were rewarded with ice cream at the South Pole. The only reward for the other three classes was a severe case of writer's cramp.

Alumni celebrate with singing and frisbees

Alumni Weekend began with renewing old acquaintances. Starting with an introduction by Alumni President, Patsy Crawford ('60), the weekend happenings included skits emphasizing the importance of human relationships, the roll call of classes, a musical program by Harvest Celebration, and a frisbee throwing demonstration by the Aces. The alumni grasped the traditional basketball victory.

Student leaders train at Au Sable

Great, exciting, inspirational, a good experience — these were some of the words used by a few of I.A.'s leaders to describe their weekend at Au Sable. Elder Warden, the guest speaker for Leadership Camp, was able to help our leaders return to us better prepared to fulfill the responsibilities awaiting them.

Parents return to school routine

November 4 found not only students going to classes but also parents who were invited to see what happens during a school day. After attending classes, they had dinner in the cafeteria with a short program by the Keynotes. They later had an opportunity to ask questions of the faculty.

Guys hold reins at western roundup

The cowpokes of East and West Dorms lassoed their cowgirls for a tour of their bunkhouses and a mechanized trail ride through I.A.'s own industrial park. A cook out featuring corn bread, chili, and cobbler was enjoyed by the dudes and their ladies in Jellystone Park. To climax the evening, The Life and Times of Grizzly Adams was featured in the long house.

Couples hula through snow to Tinegas luau

Grass skirts, a native hut, "tiny bubbles," and fresh pineapple warmed February-cold hearts and feet at the girls' reception. The guys were treated to Lannette and Kim's personalized bubble blowing, and the girls enjoyed the hulas of the Good News Quartet. After the movies, Johnny Lingo and Monkeys, Go Home, "Aloha-oe" ended the luau.

Faculty predicts future of Class of 1980

Names of seniors and faculty in code pictures, festive decorations arranged around ceramic graduates, and lively conversation marked the annual Senior-Faculty Party. As a final salute, the cleaning woman, Mrs. Trubey, and the "masked bandit," Mr. Cochran, foretold the surprising events soon to occur for the Class of 1980.

S.A. matches dates at sweetheart party

This February 14 the S.A. officers brought Hollywood's "Dating Game" to the academy campus. The dashing Mark Huber chose to take Penny Bradburn to the Dairy Queen to accompany the lovely Dee Petruzzelli, who chose to take Randy Larsen. Courtesy royalty were Carolyn Culp, queen; Cary Gregory, king; Jonna Martz and Brent Byers, first runners-up; and Veronica Beemer and Tim Young, second runners-up.

DON'T FORGET

nuclear medicine, nursing, and health education.

As you continue your education and as you begin to shape plans for the future, keep in mind the Great Lakes Adventist Health Services, Inc., is ready and eager to help. Don't forget—we're already making plans for your future!

The Great Lakes Adventist Health Services, Inc., is a corporation of church owned health care institutions. We now serve the public at thirteen facilities located in four states, and plans are underway to expand to fourteen facilities in the very near future. Our dynamic new programs will be providing an even greater demand for positions in family practice, general surgery, dentistry,

There's a place in nursing for you!

If every academy senior girl, and one-fifth of the academy senior guys in Adventist schools were to choose nursing as a career, graduate from college, and go to work in an Adventist hospital, there would still be a nursing shortage.

Because of a critical shortage of nurses in most areas, Adventist hospitals offer many good nursing positions with excellent pay, benefits, and growth potential. Nursing is no longer just a job turning patients or feeding them pills—it's a rewarding health career with wide horizons for dedicated Christians.

Nursing is specialized, providing promotions to better positions with greater responsibilities for the qualified worker. Nursing is exciting challenge. Nursing is compassionate care. And nursing is personal involvement.

It's not the career for everyone—the hard work and close involvement with patients can really drain a nurse. What really makes it worthwhile is the special note of thanks from a former patient, the smiling eyes of a child who is feeling better, and the firm walk of a patient on the mend.

Nurses are needed—and lots of them. More than one-third of the employees in a hospital are nurses! But because today's large medical center is like a small city where virtually every type of business is conducted, more than nurses are needed. Hospital employees represent a large number of health careers as well as many other professions and trades. There's a place for you!

Proper training is a must for every job in a hospital. The Adventist college near you is a good place for education; for example, Kettering College of Medical Arts offers eight associate degree programs for health careers. Contact your guidance counselor or Kettering college for information about a health career that's right for you. Call collect, (513) 296-7228.
